FAQ

Is the course flexible to complete in my own time?

Due to current COVID restrictions all modules will be conducted remotely via distance learning. The programme is broken down into three modules. Each module has an allocated number of group webinars which are set dates and times; however, self-study time can be completed in your own time.

How many hours does the course take?

The course is split over three Individual Learning Modules and into Distinct Learning Sections.

Each module has approx. 4 hours of total self-study time and allocated group webinars of approx. 90-minute duration.

As stated above, the webinars are scheduled for a fixed date and time, the self-study can be completed in your own timelines but must be completed prior to the Group Webinars.

Note: Distance Learning Content is issued to participants a minimum of 5 days prior to group webinars to allow time for completion.
